OR

The 1st year timetable information on the web is uploaded from the School of Nursing & Midwifery timetables, which can be accessed in an excel spreadsheet format via the web link below.

<http://www.snm.utas.edu.au/students/new/essentials.html>

The timetable is presented in an excel spreadsheet format. Far left hand menu lists the days of the week, the top of the page lists the hourly lecture/tute/prac times and the tutorial groups are recognised by the numbers 1-14 in each day of the week on the left hand menu. These numbers represent the number of tutorial groups available for semester 1 2010.

(Please note: timetables may be subject to change until the commencement of semester 1 2010)

Example: 2 hour lecture on Monday and various tutes on Tuesday (not complete timetable)

TUTORIAL GROUP ALLOCATION

The School of Nursing & Midwifery is currently in the process of negotiating an electronic tutorial group allocation system, whereby you will be able to access the system and nominate the preferred time for each tutorial that you are required to attend.

All groups attend lectures, as well as one tutorial per lecture, details for semester 1 tutorial requirements as follows:

CNA110 Communication & Mental Health	– 1 tutorial
CNA145 Child & Adolescent Health	– 1 tutorial
CNA126 Health Care Where People Live and Work	– 1 tutorial
CNA105 Narrative Understandings in Nursing	– 1 tutorial

If this system is operational by January 2010, you will receive information on how to access and nominate your preferences for tutorials on the timetable. It is proposed that access to the new system will be available mid January through to the first week of February 2010.

Please Note:

If this system is NOT operational by January 2010, you will be notified by the first week of February what tutorial group you have been allocated to, which will confirm your timetable details for semester 1 2010.

For all information updates on the above, please ensure that you keep a regular check via your new student email account.
